

Roshanara's Indian Dances; The Flonzaleys

By Sylvester Rauling.

Roshanara, an exponent of dances of the Orient, herself something new to jaded appetites at the Comedy Theatre yesterday afternoon. Never mind where she was born, she is something of a beauty, is young, lithe and graceful, is possessed of the bodily skill of a contortionist, which she translates into poetry and with which she illuminates song. Poor little Miss Kick-heefer, the manager, with the house sold out a week ago, and with people coming late (as they always do in New York), and with no lights anywhere except upon the stage, and with the fireman in charge insisting that everybody must be seated (art he—) was at her wit's end; but her masterfulness prevailed and she saw it through with only a medium of grumbling on the part of the subscribers. Roshanara was well worth while. With lightning changes of costume, all glowing with Oriental splendor of material and color, backfooted after the manner of Isadora Duncan, at times grotesque and at others the premiere danseuse with which we are familiar, always keeping us upon the toe of expectation and never failing to gratify us, telling whole stories by the manipulation of her marvellously expressive hands, she triumphed. No announcement of future appearances has been made, but they are inevitable and no detailed analysis of what Roshanara did and how she did it is necessary. Some of her dances were to the accompaniment of the voice of Eva Gauthier, mezzo soprano; others to that of Mr. Hunsbont and a string quartet. Miss Gauthier's individual contributions were Canadian, Japanese and Malay folk songs, she, also, indulging in a bewildering kaleidoscope of costumes. Besides there were conventional, but worthy ballet dances by Marjorie Bentley and Carl Hennings, and the Dutch Boy, who carried the house off its feet by her ballena airs and graces. She got a bouquet almost as big as herself.

ECZEMA KNOWS NO ENEMY LIKE POSLAM

Do not imagine that your Eczema is the one case that will fail to respond to Poslam's healing influence. The more stubborn the affection, the more remarkable the immediate effects of Poslam seem. After you know Poslam's splendid work you will look upon it as just so much common treated healing energy to protect your skin from all disordered conditions. Sold everywhere. Oriental and Chinese Rugs

Although Chinese and Oriental Rugs are coming into this market in goodly numbers the importations are not in quantities to lower the prices. Quite the contrary. The fact is that the tendency is toward higher prices in Rugs from both the Near and Far East.

Rugs in right color effects and designs typical of an art developed through centuries of expert workmanship make up these wonderful stocks.

It will be to your advantage to make a selection while our assortments are large. Of course the prices are attractive because these Rugs are sold as merchandise minus any sentimental value or exorbitant profit.

For Persian Rugs, prices range from $11.48 to $3,549.00
For Chinese Rugs, prices range from $9.89 to $974.00

Antique Chinese Rugs

Several hundred very rare antique Chinese small sized rugs marked at a fraction of their actual worth. This is a real opportunity. Reports from China are that there are no more antiques in large quantities to be found. Prices range from $27.50 to $84.50 each.
